Comedy. By Michael Gravois. Cast: 8 to 50 gender-neutral roles. When Aesop’s fables are given a holiday spin, you’ll get a mash-up of The Twelve Days of Christmas and The Tortoise and the Hare, where the six birds of Christmas compete in a comical race—with the turtle dove winning, of course; a tiny snow mouse teaches the abominable snowman that little friends may prove great friends; Ebenezer Scrooge realizes that wealth unused might as well not exist; Santa’s elves dream of a life outside the workshop as they sing a “patter poem” about their ideal careers; and even though the eight reindeer panic when Rudolph gets a cold in the nose, they learn that necessity is the mother of invention. A dozen vignettes illuminate important life lessons by reinventing the classic fables, blending humor, rhythmic elements, rapping, puppetry, poetry, song and storytelling to create a fast-paced, fun-filled show that’s filled with Christmas spirit. Single set. Optional sound effects/music CD available. Approximate running time: 1 hour. Code: AJ9.

QUEEN. Is too.
KING. Is not.

KING. Not.
QUEEN. Too.

QUEEN. Too! Hmmmph!
KING. Well, if it smells so bad, how come none of my subjects have said so? Hmmm? GUARDS! Bring me a subject! Pronto!
ROYAL GUARDS. Duh-ho. Duh-ho. Duh-ho.

(ROYAL GUARDS make a continuous circle around Christmas tree, muttering the whole way. They reenter, carrying a large math book and history book.)

ROYAL GUARD 1. Which subject would you like, Thire? (i.e., Which subject would you like, Sire?)
KING. Not that kind of subject, fools. One of my plebes!

(ROYAL GUARDS circle tree and reenter accompanied by ROYAL SUBJECT 1.)

KING. Please, my underling, tell me what you think of the scent of this year’s Royal Christmas Candle. (Looks at QUEEN with conceit.)
ROYAL SUBJECT 1 (takes a whiff and gags). Pee-yoo, Sire! That is the rankest scent that ere I smelt!
KING (incensed). Guards! Lock him up!

KING. Ummm…if you can’t say anything nice, don’t say anything at all?

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT. But the moral of my story was “Honesty is the best policy.” When he (indicating ROYAL SUBJECT 1) told the truth, you put him in chains. So is honesty the best policy or not?

KING. Guards! Put her in chains!

ROYAL GUARDS. Duh-ho. Duh-ho. Duh-ho.
