Excerpt terms and conditions

This excerpt is available to assist you in the play selection process.

You may view, print and download any of our excerpts for perusal purposes.

Excerpts are not intended for performance, classroom or other academic use. In any of these cases you will need to purchase playbooks via our website or by phone, fax or mail.

A short excerpt is not always indicative of the entire work, and we strongly suggest reading the whole play before planning a production or ordering a cast quantity.

Dramatic Publishing
Laurie Brooks’

ALL of US

A powerful new play that reveals the inner lives of LGBT teenagers and asks “ALL of US” to stand up for their rights.

Bring It!

© The Dramatic Publishing Company
Drama. By Laurie Brooks. Cast: 5m., 5w., 1 either gender. May be expanded. How do we combat the current epidemic of prejudice and bullying of gay high-school students? One way is to use the power of storytelling to humanize the lives of gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender teens. Designed to be performed by and for high-school students, ALL of US raises awareness of the discrimination, hatred and violence LGBT students face in their schools and communities. From cities, small towns, suburbs and rural areas, an ensemble of gay teens reveal their stories and the heartbreaking consequences of being marked as different. Nick, from a southern religious family, is sent to straight camp to turn him into an “ex-gay.” Jess, a tomboy looking for love, finds it in an unexpected ally. Justin, from a wealthy family in New York, discovers another America and begins a grassroots fight for gay rights. Shea ends up on the streets; Chris, a transgender female to male, searches in vain for someone like her; and Frank, the lovable gay boy, falls through the cracks. These stories navigate the treacherous world of being gay in high school—growing up and coming out—coping with love, hate, violence and hope—as they reveal the inner lives of LGBT teenagers and ask “ALL of US” to stand up for their rights. Simple to produce, with minimal technical requirements, this powerful play is perfect for any school or organization that cares about fighting discrimination. Bare stage with seating. Approximate running time: 65 minutes. Code: AF2.
ALL OF US

By

LAURIE BROOKS

Dramatic Publishing
Woodstock, Illinois • Australia • New Zealand • South Africa
 NOTICE ***

The amateur and stock acting rights to this work are controlled exclusively by THE DRAMATIC PUBLISHING COMPANY without whose permission in writing no performance of it may be given. Royalty must be paid every time a play is performed whether or not it is presented for profit and whether or not admission is charged. A play is performed any time it is acted before an audience. Current royalty rates, applications and restrictions may be found at our website: www.dramaticpublishing.com, or we may be contacted by mail at: DRAMATIC PUBLISHING COMPANY, 311 Washington St., Woodstock IL 60098.

COPYRIGHT LAW GIVES THE AUTHOR OR THE AUTHOR’S AGENT THE EXCLUSIVE RIGHT TO MAKE COPIES. This law provides authors with a fair return for their creative efforts. Authors earn their living from the royalties they receive from book sales and from the performance of their work. Conscientious observance of copyright law is not only ethical, it encourages authors to continue their creative work. This work is fully protected by copyright. No alterations, deletions or substitutions may be made in the work without the prior written consent of the publisher. No part of this work may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopy, recording, videotape, film, or any information storage and retrieval system, without permission in writing from the publisher. It may not be performed either by professionals or amateurs without payment of royalty. All rights, including, but not limited to, the professional, motion picture, radio, television, videotape, foreign language, tabloid, recitation, lecturing, publication and reading, are reserved.

For performance of any songs, music and recordings mentioned in this play which are in copyright, the permission of the copyright owners must be obtained or other songs and recordings in the public domain substituted.

©MMXII by
LAURIE BROOKS
Printed in the United States of America
All Rights Reserved
(ALL OF US)

© The Dramatic Publishing Company
For Beck
IMPORTANT BILLING AND CREDIT REQUIREMENTS

All producers of the musical must give credit to the authors and composers of the musical in all programs distributed in connection with performances of the musical and in all instances in which the title of the musical appears for purposes of advertising, publicizing or otherwise exploiting the musical and/or a production. The names of the authors and composers must also appear on a separate line, on which no other name appears, immediately following the title and must appear in size of type not less than fifty percent (50%) the size of the title type. Biographical information on the authors and composers, if included in the playbook, may be used in all programs. In all programs this notice must appear:

“Produced by special arrangement with
THE DRAMATIC PUBLISHING COMPANY of Woodstock, Illinois”
All of Us was commissioned by Dramatic Publishing and premiered July 25, 2011, at the Kansas City Fringe Festival produced by the Coterie Theatre’s School for Theatre Exploration. Jeff Church, Producing Artistic Director; Joette Pelster, Executive Director; Meghann Henry, Education Director.

The Ensemble
(In Alphabetical Order)

Madison. ........................................ Cydney Carl
Kid .............................................. Evan Michael Haas
Shea ............................................. Sarah Jordan
Marshall ......................................... Charlie Meredith
Allie. ............................................ Kendall Ryan
Jess. ............................................. Meredith Shea
Chris. ........................................... Rachel Shelby
Nick. ............................................. Alex Stompoly
Justin .......................................... Bradley Turner
Tyler ........................................... Ian Vonfange
Frank .......................................... Kyle Wallen

Artistic and Production Company

Directors. ........................... Jeff Church, Meghann Henry Movement Sequences .... Laurie Brooks, Meghann Henry
Step Choreographers ...... Rufus Burns, Laurie Brooks
Light Designer/Operator ......... Jayson Chandley
Composer/Sound Designer/Operator .... Eric Wallen
Stage Manager ...................... Jessie Greenfield
Technical Director (Met) .......... Warren Deckert
Technical Director (Coterie) ...... Scott Hobart
Acknowledgments

I wish to express my appreciation to those who supported the birth of this play: Dramatic Publishing; the Coterie Theatre in Kansas City, Mo.; the Kansas City Fringe Festival; Jeff Church, for taking yet another risk with me; and Meghann Henry, for fabulous energy. Special thanks to QSpeak Theatre (Phoenix); its founder/artistic director, A. Beck, and the Tempe Historical Museum for commissioning and producing an earlier play, All of Us: Revealing LGBTQ History in the Valley of the Sun; and to QSpeak’s talented youth performers: Steven Burgess, Jason Ghianuly, Jessi Jordan, Emerson Kuhn, Paul Leighton, Chris Leitner, Kat Nichols, Tiana Parkinson, Shane Penunuri, Jen Santangelo, Samuel Taylor and Justin Wallgren. My work with them inspired the play you now hold. Love to all.
ALL OF US

CHARACTERS

KID . . . hidden in a hoodie, either gender, must be able to perform spoken word/rap

MARSHALL . . . . clean-cut, soft-spoken, in the closet, from Colorado Springs, Colo.

ALLIE . . . . . . . . loyal, vulnerable, from Portland, Ore.

JESS. . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . tomboy, from Portland, Ore.

MADISON. . . . . . . . . funky clothes, wild hair, from suburbs of Columbus, Ohio

FRANK . . . . . . . . feminine, vulnerable, from suburbs of Columbus, Ohio

TYLER . . . . . . . . . . . muscled-up, from a farm near Davenport, Iowa

NICK. . . . . . . religious, slight Southern accent, from Alabama

JUSTIN . . . . . . . . . . preppy, super smart and knows it, from New York City

CHRIS. . . . . . . . . transgender, female to male, physically still a girl but looks like a guy

SHEA . . . . . . . . . . lesbian femme girl, left Bellingham, Wash., for Seattle
ABOUT THE PLAY

This play is largely presentational with a great deal of direct address. It is best played as close to the audience as possible so that there is little space between the audience and the players to better facilitate the ending. The play is meant to be performed on a bare stage except for six cubes on the periphery of the space that can be moved to serve various uses, including as drumming devices to add distinctive rhythms in the introduction of each fragment. The acting company functions both as an ensemble and individual characters in the stories. Kid wears a hoodie that hides his face and does not take part in the ensemble action. Initially, Kid views the Ensemble with disdain but slowly, as he listens to their stories, he begins to care. The entire cast remains on stage for the duration of the performance. The play moves freely in and out of real time and past tense. Sections of Ensemble dialogue are intended to be divided so that the audience hears both single and multiple Ensemble voices (see playwright’s notes at end of script).

Ensemble Members taking on smaller, drop-in roles may be backlit. This denotes characters from the past and avoids confusion with each actor’s primary character.

During rehearsals the cast builds a series of tableaux that represent concepts in the play. Instructions for tableau building are included at the back of the text. A series of energetic but simple movement sequences are also built in the tradition of stomp dancing, a style that uses hand/body clapping and foot stomping to express emotion. Also included is a template of the division of Ensemble dialogue to serve as a guideline.
ALL OF US

IN THE DARK: We hear the sound of the ENSEMBLE snapping their fingers. KID sits alone, apart from the others.

AS LIGHTS RISE: ENSEMBLE begin clapping a rhythm. The clapping escalates until an ENSEMBLE MEMBER shouts, “Bring it! 2-3-4-” ENSEMBLE jumps in place, then breaks out into the space, banging a rhythm on cubes, body slapping, clapping and stomping in a kind of furious dance. Vocal sounds add to the energy, such as “Oo,” and “ah,” and other energetic, positive expressions, until an ENSEMBLE MEMBER shouts, “Bring it —2-3-4-5-6-7-8,” as ENSEMBLE takes positions around the space.

ENSEMBLE (to the audience).
   I am queer
   I am gay lesbian bisexual transgender questioning
   I don’t know what I am.
   I am out of the closet.
In your face
Everywhere you look.
Here is my neutral self.
The real me is hiding...somewhere.
I’m afraid someone will find out.
Then everyone will hate me.
Identity politics suck.
I will not be defined by my sexuality.
I am comfortable with who I am.
I am so much more than gay.
I am a mystery.
With me, what you see is what you get.
I look like my Uncle Harold.

(ENSEMBLE laughs. As they speak the following lines, the ENSEMBLE moves, one by one, to form a tableau of friendship.)

ENSEMBLE.
Don’t call me homosexual.
I prefer the word queer because it’s just one syllable.
I am who I am so just shut up about it!
I am sad angry proud lonely
If you cut me, I bleed.
If you call me names, it hurts.
I am a person.
I am a whole lot like you.
These stories are true.
They might even be familiar.
Maybe they happened to your brother,
sister,
cousin,
friend
or maybe you.
They are a part of all of us,
All of us.

(Tableau complete.)

JESS (indicating KID). Not all of us.
TYLER. Hey, Kid.
KID. What do you want?
JESS. You wanna join us?
KID. Leave me alone.
JESS. Sor-ry. It’s just kinda weird that you’re up here.
MARSHALL. Yeah. It’s like you’re with us, but you’re not with us, if you catch my drift.

(Note: KID’s rants throughout the play are meant to be delivered in spoken-word style without music. He addresses these rants to the audience and/or ENSEMBLE in a kind of street performance.)

KID. Out on the streets, alone in the dark/ sleeping in the park, holdin’ on to my heart/ Found a half a can a Coke and a few lousy smokes/ then lost myself inside a cheap bag a dope/ Will I ever win?/ A falsified grin pasted hard on my face?/ I doubt it and I’ll shout it/ Hell, I can do without it/ I don’t need you, I don’t trust you/ I dare you to care/ Look around, I’ll be gone/ Don’t even try to find me/ I’ll flee, I guarantee/ You disagree?/ I see you/ I see you staring at me/ Leave me alone, take your little bitty pity/ in this city nobody cares anyway/ I found that out the hard way, baby/ So keep your precious sob stories all to yourself/ Write it in a book and stash it high on the shelf/ I don’t wanna hear it, it’s nothin’ but bullshit/ take your tight-knit pals and split. Go far.

(ENSEMBLE is impressed with KID’s performance skills.)

ALLIE. Wow. That was awesome.
JUSTIN. Sorry you’ve had a rough time, man.
KID. Like you care.
JUSTIN. I said I was sorry.
KID. Talk’s cheap.
TYLER. Just leave him alone.

(KID turns his back on the ENSEMBLE.)

NICK. First Fragments!
ENSEMBLE (overlapping voices).
   Here we go!
   Freshman year.
   Does my hair look all right?

(ENSEMBLE explodes into the space and forms tableau of family photo. The ENSEMBLE gives the audience a huge, fake smile and we hear the click of a camera.)

FRANK. Growing up. Coming out.
ENSEMBLE. …or not.

(As each ENSEMBLE MEMBER speaks, he/she moves out of the tableau into the space.)

ENSEMBLE.
   To be or not to be?
   That’s the question.
   I want to come out.
   I want to stop hiding.
   pretending,
   lying.
   But how can I tell my parents?
   My friends?
   My brother?
   My girlfriend?
   Maybe they’ll be angry.
   Maybe they’ll understand.
   Maybe they already know.
   I’m afraid of the hatred,
   the abuse,
   the stares,
the taunts,
Afraid no one will love me,
Afraid to be alone.

NICK. I was fourteen when I figured out I was gay. My first crush hit me like a bolt of lightning. And I thought, oh, crap, this is not going to go over well with my parents.

JESS. I was sweet sixteen and in love with Allie. My mother said it was disgusting. Then she started screaming and crying.

MARSHALL. I probably knew at age ten or eleven. But I couldn’t admit it to myself. I’m still not out.

NICK. What are you waiting for?
MARSHALL. I’m not ready yet, okay?

CHRIS. Honey, I’ve known since I was eight, nine years old.

FRANK. I got you beat. I was three or four and I already knew that I was attracted to men.

SHEA. What? You didn’t know at three or four. You can’t even remember back that far.

FRANK. How do you know what I can remember? Are you me?

JUSTIN. Developmentally, you weren’t capable of knowing something that sophisticated at three years old.

FRANK. I was advanced for my age.

(ENSEMBLE laughs. MARSHALL takes the stage.)

MARSHALL. I’m the quarterback on the football team and I star in the school musicals. I sing, I dance, I act, I get sacked. I do it all.
MARSHALL. Girls call me, IM me, even sext me. Cool, beautiful, popular girls. They just don’t interest me. As friends, sure, but other than that, not so much. But I’m the quarterback. That comes with expectations. I thought if I could make myself feel something for those girls, it'd make my life easier. So I’m dating Amy.

(AMY appears, backlit.)

AMY. Hey, hot stuff.
MARSHALL. We have fun. But she keeps dropping these hints that she wants our relationship to be more...physical.

(ENSEMBLE groans. AMY slides her arms around MARSHALL and kisses him. He does not enjoy it.)

AMY. What’s wrong? I thought you liked me.
MARSHALL. I do. I do.
AMY. Then how come you don’t act like it?
MARSHALL. I morph Amy into Justin Bieber...with his old hairdo. (He kisses her. Kiss ends, he looks at her, sees she is not Justin Bieber. To audience:) Nope. Nothing.

(AMY drapes herself on MARSHALL.)

AMY. I love you, Marshall.

(MARSHALL pushes AMY away. AMY fades.)
MARSHALL. I love you, too.

(ENSEMBLE reacts with disbelief.)

MARSHALL. It’s not a lie, okay? I love her like a friend. And besides, what else can I say?
FRANK. Amy, I’m gay.

(ENSEMBLE laughs.)

ALLIE. So Marshall turned to the one person he thought would understand. His mom.

(MARSHALL’S MOM appears, backlit. ENSEMBLE snickers.)

MARSHALL. Don’t laugh. A boy’s best friend is his mother, right? (To MOM.) Uh, Mom, got a minute?
MARSHALL’S MOM. For you, always.
MARSHALL. I’m kind of freakin’ out here.
MARSHALL’S MOM. What’s the problem, honey? Come tell me all about it.
MARSHALL. Well, I’ve been worried, you know? It’s probably stupid…but… (Pause. Deep breath.) Do you think I’m gay?

(MOM gives audience a look, hesitates.)

MARSHALL. Wait. Don’t answer. See, I’ve been kissing Amy, but I don’t feel anything. The guys keep asking what me and Amy are doing, you know, and well, we’re not doing anything.
MARSHALL’S MOM. Ooohhh. That’s good, honey. You’ve got plenty of time for all that after you’re married.

MARSHALL. You don’t think I might be gay? (To audience. Here’s where I’m hoping she’ll help me out. I change her into Bette Midler.

(MARSHALL’s MOM becomes Bette Midler.)

MARSHALL’S MOM (imitating Bette Midler). Of course you’re gay, darling! Fantastic! We’ll have so much fun on cruises!

MARSHALL. But what she really says is…

(ENSEMBLE boos softly. MARSHALL’S MOM, clueless, fades.)

MARSHALL. I went deeper inside the closet.

(JUSTIN takes the stage.)

JUSTIN. My mom knew I was gay from the beginning. She didn’t have to be a rocket scientist to figure it out.

FRANK. That’s Justin from New York City, the Big Apple. Hello, sweet cakes!

JUSTIN. I grew up playing with my sister’s Barbies, dressing and undressing them, styling their hair. Hell, I wanted to BE Barbie. And, eat your hearts out, boys, I went to an all-male private high school. It was a smorgasbord. I had gay friends and straight friends and girlfriends. No one was threatened by my sexuality. One thing I knew for sure. I’d never leave New York where being gay was no big deal.

TYLER. Well, congratulations on your perfect life. (He joins JUSTIN.)

CHRIS. That’s Tyler from rural Iowa. And when I say rural I mean the middle of nowhere.

TYLER (to JUSTIN). Far as I knew, New York was some place you read about in books. And I was too busy to read what with farm chores and all. I did my best to be like my dad wanted me to be, decent grades at school, church every Sunday and a big helping of respect for my parents’ way of life. When I was sixteen, I drove the truck over to Iowa City and bought me some magazines. I won’t go into the particulars. Let’s just say they weren’t pictures of girls. Then one night my little brother walked in my room without knocking and well… My dad was waiting for me the next morning. He took his belt to me until he got tired of it, then hauled out the barbecue and burned the magazines in the front yard.

(SHEA takes focus.)

SHEA. By the time I turned fifteen, I was angry at the whole world. Everybody around me was a target.

MADISON. That’s Shea from Bellingham, Washington. She didn’t give a rat’s ass about anybody.

SHEA. I got in some kind of fight every week. After a bunch of girls beat the shit out of me, I took to hiding out. I liked it so much I started skipping school with my friend, K.C. She’d call school for me and I’d call for her.

(K.C. comes forward, backlit. During the following phone call, K.C. and ENSEMBLE MEMBERS try hard not to laugh, to varying degrees of success.)

K.C. Hello, this is Shea’s mother. I’m sorry, Shea won’t be in school today. She’s come down with another cold. Bye. (She fades.)

SHEA. We’d hang out in the woods just the two of us. We got caught, of course. The “rents” locked me in my room. “You’re not our daughter,” they said. “We don’t even know you.” I jumped out my second-story bedroom window and ran to K.C.’s house. We headed for Seattle and freedom.

(CHRIS jumps up on a cube.)

CHRIS. I know what you’re thinking, is that a dude or a girl? Why should you be different from anybody else? I’m Chris, the token trans, female to male. (He takes a bow.) Go ahead, take a good look. I’m used to it. Imagine for a minute that you wake up one morning and you’re trapped in the body of the most beautiful person in the world. Brilliant, right? Now imagine that you wake up the next morning and you’re trapped in the wrong body and it’s not that beautiful. So what, you say? I’ll tell you what. Imagine you’re a guy and you start growing breasts. Think about that nightmare. And you can’t wake up from it.